

calibration material (in analysis)

A material of known composition or properties which can be presented to the analytical instrument for calibration purposes.

See also control material.

1989, 61, 1660