

ground level concentration (in atmospheric chemistry)

The concentration of a chemical species, normally a pollutant, in air; usually measured at a specific height above the ground.

1990, 62, 2181