

background (of a radiation measuring device)

The term employed to designate the value indicated by a radiation measuring device in the absence of the source whose radiation is to be measured, when the device is placed under its normal conditions of operation.

1982, 54, 1536